To help stay on top of emerging food safety trends and best practices, I would like to attend the 12th annual Food Safety Summit, April 12-14 in Washington DC. This conference and expo offers more than 30 powerful education sessions, 2 dynamic keynote addresses from an Industry and Government perspective and an exhibit hall filled with products, ideas and services we can implement immediately.

The following are some of the sessions that would be of particular relevance:

Summary of Benefits

Attending this comprehensive food safety event I will:

- Enhance my knowledge and gain the tools allowing me to do my job more effectively
- Give me the opportunity to interact with other food safety professionals at over 30 educational sessions, in the exhibit hall and at formal networking events
- Explore issues and discuss practical solutions to problems effecting the food supply chain
- Learn about products and services through vendor education sessions and visiting over 175 exhibitors
- Investigate the global nature of food safety and how it impacts me and my company

I will be able to pass on much of what I learn to my colleagues and my notes and copies of the speaker presentations will be available for reference.

Thank you for your consideration.
Sincerely,
